

Lab report expectations

1. Reports are due at the beginning of the next week's lab. You can turn them in at the lab.
2. The writeup should be at most 4 pages long.
3. Your report should be legible. You should type your report, or write it very clearly by hand.
4. Include all the details that the lab writeup asks you to report. You can include more details if they add useful information to the report, or if they demonstrate some aspect of your understanding.
5. Report your measurements with appropriate units, and using a level of error analysis that is appropriate to the question that you are asked.
